FOREWORD

This seminar, sponsored by the National Institute of Corrections (NIC), is partially a continuation of an earlier seminar held in Washington, D.C. in December 1986 to promote the mutual exchange of information between state legislative researchers and the NIC. It is also designed to attract additional state legislative researchers who are contributing to state correctional policy.

There are four major changes in the nature of this meeting:
1) there will be a more intensive and sophisticated look at some of the issues that were considered at the earlier meeting - Correctional Impact Analyses and Population Projections, and Sentencing Options and Guidelines; 2) the location is in Annapolis, Maryland rather than in Washington;
3) it is a regional meeting with about 26-28 attendees from ten primarily mid-Atlantic states rather than from the 25 states east of the Mississippi; and 4) it is a one-day seminar over two days - roughly mid-day to mid-day.

There will be several small group discussions to gain greater insight into the experiences of the participants as well as providing considerable data from NIC. There will also be some small group discussions which will be on other correctional issues not given primary attention. Attendees will be a mix of those who attended before and new persons providing a balance between substantive correctional concerns and financial correctional concerns. Participants are encouraged to raise and discuss questions, issues, and problems they find instructive or significant.

We are grateful to the National Institute of Corrections for their generous support in funding this timely and important meeting.

Biographical Information on the Speakers

RAYMOND C. BROWN

Ray Brown is Director of the National Institute of
Corrections and an Adviser to the U.S. Delegate to the
United Nations, Congress on Prevention of Crime and Treatment of Offenders. Prior to joining NIC he worked in several different capacities for the State of California including Chairman, California State Board of Prison Terms;
Chairman, California Authority; and Member, California Governor's Select Committee on Law Enforcement Problems.

WARREN I. CIKINS

Warren Cikins, a Senior Staff Member, Center for Public Policy Education, the Brookings Institution, received his B.A. from Harvard College and his M.A. from Harvard Graduate School of Public Administration. He served on Capitol Hill for Congressman Brooks Hays and Senator Clair Engle, and also served as a White House Executive Assistant and as a Senior Liaison Officer for the Department of State. Mr. Cikins was elected twice as Supervisor of the Mount Vernon District of Fairfax County, Virginia, voluntarily retiring in January 1980.

GEORGE KEISER

George Keiser has been Chief of the NIC's Community Corrections Division for five years where he manages a public sector consulting/training service for state and local community corrections agencies. Prior to this he served for fifteen years with the Iowa Corrections System. During this time he was one of the authors of the Iowa Community Corrections Act creating multi-county public community corrections agencies governed by boards of directors.

KAY KNAPP

Kay Knapp is Director of the Institute for Rational Public Policy where she directs projects on structured sentencing and criminal justice information systems. She has worked in the area of sentencing reform for the past ten years with such organizations as the Minnesota Sentencing Guidelines Commission and the U.S. Sentencing Commission. She completed doctoral course work in political science at the University of Kentucky.

PEGGY A. McGARRY

Peggy McGarry has been with the Center for Effective Public Policy since 1983 and is currently Corporate Development Specialist and State Coordinator, National Prison and Jail Overcrowding Project. Since 1982 she has also been Chair, Allocations Panel, Pennsylvania Coalition Against Domestic Violence. She received a B.A. from Bryn Mawr College and is an M.A. candidate at Temple University.

PHYLLIS D. MODLEY

Phyllis Modley is a Correctional Program Specialist with NIC's Community Corrections Division. In the past six years she has played a major role in the design and management of the NIC/Edna McConnell Clark Foundation program on jail and prison crowding. She holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Rochester and a Master's degree in history and teaching from Syracuse University.

JOHN E. MOORE

John Moore is a Correctional Program Specialist with NIC's Prisons Division. Before joining NIC he served as Assistant Commissioner for four years with the Tennessee Department of Corrections and prior to that he served for six years as the Services Coordinator for the Georgia Department of Human Resources. He received his B.S. degree from Middle Tennessee State University and his M.S. degree from the University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

MICHAEL O'TOOLE

Michael O'Toole presently is Chief of the NIC Jails Division. During his tenure with NIC and prior to being appointed to his present position, he had primary responsibility for the Planning of New Institutions program and several other facility-related grants and programs. Prior to joining NIC he spent twelve years with the Sheriff's Office in Alexandria, Virginia where he was chief deputy for administration and correctional services. He holds a bachelor's degree from George Washington University.
