Executive Summary

NIC Balanced Scorecard (C1.1) Needs Assessment Focused at the Executive and Senior Level Leadership Across Jails, Prisons, and Community Corrections

The National Institute of Corrections (NIC), as part of its Balanced Scorecard initiative (C1.1), launched phase one of the needs assessment study in April 2005. The survey was distributed to top correctional administrators nationwide, in all types of agencies, focusing on their greatest concerns in state and local correctional agencies at the Executive/Senior Leader levels.

The survey was delivered to NIC administrator networks, covering all adult state prisons, state probation, state parole, and large jail systems. A semi-random approach was used to reach other, mostly small and medium jails and county probation. Over 900 survey invitations were sent to agency directors. Online and PDF versions of the survey were put on the NIC web server. Accordingly, respondents could take the instrument online or fax/mail their responses to NIC. Paper responses were entered into the online system for analysis. A total of 357 responses were received. No juvenile justice responses were processed in this analysis.

Community corrections agencies provided 106 responses; however, the actual number of community respondents may have been slightly larger as all agencies that checked both the "prisons" and "community corrections" functions were grouped into the prison sample. Jails delivered 198 responses, and prisons provided 50 responses that included data from 32 states, with 19 of these responses being from agencies providing both prisons and community corrections services. An in-depth breakdown analysis of the agency responses is contained in the report.

It was hoped that the random survey sample would include not only agencies that are already aware of NIC and its services, but also agencies that are potential users of NIC services. Regarding use of NIC services over the past five years, 74% of respondents indicated that their agencies had had some use of NIC services, 18% indicated no use, and 8% indicated that they didn't know.

The survey instrument focused on data collection in nine categories containing a total of 68 issues or questions: Organizational development and administration, budget and fiscal management, relations with the external environment, workforce issues, leadership and management development, staff training and development, physical plant, safety of staff, offenders and the community, and offender program interventions. A separate category asked for information on the likelihood an agency would access specific forms of NIC assistance.

A five point Likert-scale survey approach was used. Respondents were asked to rate each issue in terms of the need for his/her agency to approach that issue in a different way than it is currently being addressed. Scale increments were:

0 = No need to address this issue

1 = Little need to address this issue

2 = Some need to address this issue

3 = Strong need to address this issue

4 = Critical need to address this issue

Data from respondents in community corrections, jails, and prisons agencies were aggregated for analysis.

Average scores for each item indicate its objective importance to respondents. Based on the distribution of average Likert scale scores for the full sample, we grouped the issues into four levels of importance:

- ► Top concerns 2.25 and higher
- ► Significant concerns 2.00 2.25
- Moderate concerns 1.75 1.99
- Lesser concerns 1.74 and under

In addition to our primary focus on average scores, we also factored in a percentage analysis of the data for the community corrections, jails, and prisons samples. To be considered significant as a "top concern," an issue needed to earn a 2.25 Likert scale score or be rated by 50% or more of the respondents in community corrections, jails, and/or prisons as presenting a "strong" or "critical" need for attention or change by the agency.

Issues meeting the scoring and percentage cutoff criteria for the "top concerns" category, and their average scores, are:

•	Ability to evaluate program impact	(2.56)
	Adequacy of offender mental health care	(2.48)
	Planning for staff needs	(2.47)
	Training and developing managers and supervisors	(2.46)
	Employee motivation	(2.44)
	Sufficient program capacity for offender population	(2.42)
	Training and developing executives and leaders	(2.38)
	Responding to needs of specific offender populations	(2.37)
	Influencing system policies that affect costs	(2.34)
	Succession planning	(2.34)
	Numeric sufficiency of staff to manage offenders	(2.33)
	Research and evaluation	(2.32)
	New employee recruitment, screening, and selection	(2.31)
	Employee salary and benefits	(2.28)
	Evaluation of training impact	(2.27)
	Ability to identify and implement programs	(2.25)

Issues at the top tier of concern are not the only items relevant for NIC programs and assistance, but they could be considered priority areas for NIC planning.

- Average scores from 2.25 and higher (the top tier) indicate a strong need for agencies to address the issue. These issues are most likely to have strong and relatively balanced interest from community corrections, jails, and prisons.
- Average scores from 1.75 to 2.25 (the significant and moderate tiers) indicate some need for agencies to address the issue. Often, these items showed stronger interest from one or two of the functional groups. Details are presented in the full survey report
- Scores below 1.75 (the lesser tier) indicate the issues with least need for agencies to address them.

In a separate survey category, respondents were asked, "How likely is it that, within the next 2 years, your agency will access the following forms of no-cost NIC assistance?" A comparable 5-level Likert scale scoring format was used for this section.

NIC services in their order of likely use, as calculated for the full survey sample, are:

- Resources & links on NIC web site
- NIC classroom training, regionally delivered (closer to your agency)
- NIC Information Center document delivery
- NIC training sessions at professional conferences
- NIC Information Center research assistance
- Classroom training, delivered on-site at your agency
- Classroom training at NIC Training Center
- NIC e-mail discussion groups (listervs) and online forums
- On-site technical assistance
- NIC informational or training broadcasts (viewed after the broadcast on DVD)
- NIC online e-learning (web-based training)
- NIC e-learning programs on CD-ROM
- NIC-sponsored peer administrator network meetings
- NIC informational or training broadcasts (viewed live by satellite downlink)
- NIC informational or training broadcasts (viewed live by Internet streaming)
- NIC informational or training broadcasts (viewed after the broadcast via Internet streaming)

The data from this effort will assist other Balanced Scorecard Project Teams and the NIC Executive staff in a coordinated, collaborative fashion to help guide strategic planning for future training and development programs, technical assistance efforts, and Information Center processes.

NIC Correctional Needs Assessment: Full Report

This project was formulated to tap into the knowledge and expertise of top correctional administrators nationwide, in all types of agencies, to learn which issues are of greatest concern to state and local correctional agencies. By ensuring that its services are aligned with the concerns of its constituency, NIC can remain a strong and effective source of assistance.

Project Method

Research Design

The NIC project team of Academy Division, Jails Division, and Information Center staff began meeting in 2004 to develop the research plan for this project. A Likert-scale survey methodology was chosen to facilitate structured and analyzable data on agency concerns.

The team developed a survey instrument with 68 issues to be independently rated by respondents. We identified these issues through roundtable discussions and fine-tuned their wording to eliminate or reduce leading or value-laden terminology.

Respondents were given the following instructions:

This survey is organized under nine major functional areas in corrections. Under each area, we list factors that are typically important in agency operations and management.

Your agency's way of handling a factor may be satisfactory now, or the agency may need to address the factor by implementing new strategies and techniques for a more effective approach.

Using a scale from 0 to 4, the survey asks how critical it is that your agency address each factor in order to improve the agency's performance in this area.

For each item, circle the appropriate number to show whether/how strongly your agency needs to address it:

- 0 No need to address this factor
- 1 Little need to address this factor
- 2 Some need to address this factor
- 3 Strong need to address this factor
- 4 Critical need to address this factor

The 68 topics were presented in the following categories, reflecting broad concerns of correctional managers and leaders:

- A) ORGANIZATIONAL DEVELOPMENT AND ADMINISTRATION
- B) BUDGET AND FISCAL MANAGEMENT
- C) RELATIONS WITH THE EXTERNAL ENVIRONMENT
- D) WORKFORCE ISSUES
- E) LEADERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT DEVELOPMENT
- F) STAFF TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT
- G) PHYSICAL PLANT
- H) SAFETY OF STAFF, OFFENDERS, AND THE COMMUNITY
- I) OFFENDER PROGRAM INTERVENTIONS

The written survey instrument and instructions were piloted in January 2005 with approximately 35 participants in an NIC executive training program. The final written survey, including instructions for respondents, is attached as Appendix A.

Data Collection

The team determined representative target samples for reaching community corrections, jails, and prisons in the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and the U.S. protectorates. (See Appendix B for details on outreach to agency groupings.) Agency administrators were contacted by e-mail or, as necessary, direct mail.

- All members of relevant NIC administrator networks in adult corrections were invited to participate. This covered all state prisons, state probation, state parole, and large jails systems.
- To reach other correctional audiences (primarily small and medium jails and county probation), staff selected agencies in a semi-random manner for invitation to participate, controlling for representation by state, by county population, and by geographic distribution within the state.
- Indian Country agencies received mailed survey packets.

Overall, NIC sent survey invitations to more than 900 corrections agency directors. Follow-up messages followed from project staff and NIC Division Chiefs. The National Association of Probation Executives assisted by sending a its membership an e-mail reminder to participate in the survey. An additional follow-up invitation was sent through NIC's State Jail Inspectors listsery, reaching 35 states.

Online (direct entry) and PDF versions of the survey were placed on the NIC web server. Those taking the survey could respond online or by faxing or mailing their answers to NIC. Paper responses were entered into the online system for analysis.

About the Data Sample

A total of 357 responses were received, providing a diversified sample for the project. Three (3) responses were from agencies providing only juvenile justice services and were not included in the data analysis.

Correctional Functions Represented. Survey data were grouped for analysis by agency function. Because many agencies perform more than one function, the division of responses into functional categories is approximate. Table 1 presents an overview of the survey sample by level of government and correctional function performed.

Table 1. Overview: Needs Assessment Survey Sample

	TOTAL	County, Local, Territorial, or District Agencies	State Agencies	Other
Community corrections	106	77	25	4
Jails	198	194	ı	4
Prisons	50	11	38	1
Totals:	354	282	63	9

Comments and qualifiers about the data samples include the following.

- The state community corrections response may have been slightly larger than this breakdown suggests. All agencies that checked both the "prisons" and "community corrections" functions were grouped into the prison sample.
- The jail sample is the cleanest. However, a small number (11) of local government agencies that identified themselves as providing "prison" services could not be separated from the prison sample for this report.
- The prison sample of 50 responses includes data from 32 states. This sample is both the smallest and the least certain in terms of agency nature and function.
 - Nineteen (19) of these responses are from agencies providing both prisons and community corrections services. Though separate survey responses were requested for institutional operations and community-based services, the project's ability to segment responses depended on how these functions were reported. Three states represented in the prison sample provided 2 or more prison responses and no community corrections response, possibly meaning that their replies for community corrections have been included in the prison sample.
 - ► Eleven (11) prison responses were provided by local government agencies. For example, Pennsylvania submitted five (5) prison responses.
 - This segment also includes at least seven (7) state unified systems single agencies that provide jails, prisons, and community corrections services in such locations as Rhode Island and Alaska.

Agency Sizes Represented. The data sample represents a range of agency sizes:

- There were 80 agencies in the "very small" size range (under 150 offenders supervised), predominately representing jails.
- There were 86 agencies in the "small" range (150 to 999 offenders supervised), mainly jails.
- There were 114 agencies in the mid-range (1,000 to 7,499 offenders supervised). These were roughly split between community corrections and jails.
- The "large" range (7,500 to 14,999 offenders supervised) had 22 responses, split between community corrections, jails, and prisons.
- The "very large" range (15,000 and more offenders) had 55 responses, with more prisons than community corrections.

Respondent's Position in Agency. This project was intended to focus on top agency leaders, and fully 81% of respondents identified themselves as being in Executive/CEO or Senior Level Leader positions. Another 16% identified themselves as managers.

Agencies' Use of NIC Services. Respondents were asked if their agencies had used any form of NIC assistance in the past 5 years.

- Some use of NIC services 74%
- No use of NIC services 18%. This figure was highest in the community corrections sample, at about one-third of responding agencies. About one-fifth (16%) of respondents in jails said their agencies have received no recent NIC assistance.
- Not known by respondent 8%

Approach to Data Analysis

Project staff examined respondents' Likert response data to identify the top concerns of responding agencies. We also examined how these concerns were consistent or differed across the major functional areas within the corrections field: community corrections, jails, and prisons.

Two main access points were used to quantify and compare the relative importance of the issues covered in the survey:

Average scores for each item indicate its objective importance to respondents. This was the primary measure used in the analysis. The average score is a weighted average that factors in all the ratings for each item, across the 5 Likert scale values. The higher the score value, the more important the issue.

In this review, top concerns are considered to be those with an average score of 2.25 or higher.

Average scores from 2.25 to 3.0 indicate a strong need to address the issue under question. Average scores from 1.75 to 2.25 indicate some need to address the issue. Scores below 1.75 show the areas reported as being of least concern to respondents.

The secondary measure of importance used in this project was the combined percentage of agencies rating an issue as either a "strong" or "critical" need.

In this review, an issue is considered to be a significant concern if it was rated a "strong" or "critical" need by 50% or more of respondents in community corrections, jails, and/or prisons.

■ We also noted instances where the number of "critical" responses was higher than was evident when looking just at the combined "strong"/"critical" percentage. These numbers can be seen in the Appendix C spreadsheets and are occasionally noted in the issue details sections that follow.

The average score and combined percentage both identify the same issues as priority items, but the ranking of issues sometimes differs slightly. We chose to use the average score as the key measure because it incorporates all the Likert data provided by respondents, rather than the data from only 2 of the 5 possible need levels.

Spreadsheets in Appendix C present survey data for the areas of community corrections, jails, and prisons. They show the full Likert raw counts, percentages, and average scores for each item.

To arrive at conclusions about the overall corrections field, staff also calculated average scores for the full survey sample. We did this by averaging the average scores obtained for the community corrections, jails, and prisons samples. This ensured an equal weight for responses from the smaller prison sample, the mid-sized community corrections sample, and the larger jail sample.

Based on the distribution of average scores for the full sample, we grouped the issues into four levels of importance:

- Top concerns 2.25 and higher OR 50% "strong" or "critical" need to be addressed reported by at least one sample group.
- Significant concerns 2.00 2.25
- Moderate concerns 1.75 1.99
- Lesser concerns 1.74 and under

Interpretation and application of the data presented in this report will be a matter for the NIC community to address. Issues at the top tier of concern are not the only items relevant for NIC programs and assistance, but they could be considered priority areas for NIC planning.

- Average scores from 2.25 and higher (the top tier) indicate a strong to very strong need for agencies to address the issue. These issues are most likely to have relatively balanced interest from community corrections, jails, and prisons. Details are presented in the second segment of the report.
- Average scores from 1.75 to 2.25 (the significant and moderate tiers) indicate some need for agencies to address the issue. Often, these items showed stronger interest from one or two of the functional groups. Details are presented in the full survey report
- Scores below 1.75 (the lesser tier) indicate the issues with least need for agencies to address them.

Key Findings: Overview

As NIC readers review and interpret the project findings that follow, they should keep in mind several points about the project's purpose, its method, and the resulting data and analysis:

- This project represents NIC's first attempt at conducting a field-wide needs assessment. In that sense, this project and report are a test of one possible approach that may be continued, modified, replaced, or discontinued in the future.
- The data sample obtained for this survey represents a broad and diversified segment of the nation's corrections agencies, but it does not constitute a statistically stratified representative sample. A statistically reliable sample is particularly difficult to obtain for the prison sample, based on this project's focus on top administrators, given that there is a maximum of 51 state-level correctional systems.
- Survey findings represent the views of agency leaders, which may differ from other viewpoints in their agencies.
- The survey measured agency leaders' perceptions of areas in which their agencies need to change. (Refer to survey instructions, page 2.) The survey findings are not necessarily a measure of agencies' need for NIC assistance. It will be up to the NIC community to interpret and apply the survey findings in planning future services.
- Respondents were asked to select one answer from a fixed set of five Likert scale responses. The meaning of the scale levels was subject to individual interpretation. It is hypothesized that the somewhat lower-than-expected scores recorded may be an artifact of the survey wording.
- The 68 issues respondents rated were also subject to individual interpretation.
- The average scores calculated for the full survey sample, based on scores from the community, jail, and prison samples, are only approximate representations of field concerns. The full-sample average scores are generally good indicators of higher and lower level concerns, but they should not be relied upon for accurately ranking the concerns of the field.
- Average scores are only one axis for making sense of the survey snapshot. Issue details, presented in the second portion of this report, provide a clearer picture and should be consulted by readers seeking more complete information.
 - For example, some issues have average scores only in the mid-range but still have a significant percentage rating as a strong to critical need.
 - Other issues, such as offender medical care, have low full-sample averages because of the different scope of services provided by community corrections but are a significant area of concern in jails and prisons.
- For full Likert response data from community corrections, jails, and prisons, refer to the data tables in Appendix C.
- Survey findings represent a snapshot of the issues of concern to corrections agencies in the spring of 2005. As always, agency concerns are subject to change.

Observations on the Samples' Scores

The three survey sample groups showed some overall differences in the way they rated the issues.

- The community corrections sample produced average scores that were, on balance, usually between those of jails and prisons. The top 10 issues as rated by community respondents ranged from 2.88 to 2.32, dropping relatively sharply, by 0.56 points.
- The prisons sample tended to rate issues more highly on the Likert scale than the other two groups, indicating more urgency in addressing them. Their top 10 issues had average scores from 2.79 to 2.55, a more gradual drop of just 0.24 points.
- Jail data indicates a lower degree of urgency than either of the other samples. In the jail top 10, the top score of 2.46 is already below the prison sample scale. The lowest score in the jail top 10 is 2.10, a straight curve drop of 0.36 points.

Top Field Concerns by Category

Issues were presented in the following categories:

- A) ORGANIZATIONAL DEVELOPMENT AND ADMINISTRATION
- B) BUDGET AND FISCAL MANAGEMENT
- C) RELATIONS WITH THE EXTERNAL ENVIRONMENT
- D) WORKFORCE ISSUES
- E) LEADERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT DEVELOPMENT
- F) STAFF TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT
- G) PHYSICAL PLANT
- H) SAFETY OF STAFF, OFFENDERS, AND THE COMMUNITY
- I) OFFENDER PROGRAM INTERVENTIONS

Average scores for the full sample show that three topic categories pose the greatest concern to corrections at this time:

- WORKFORCE ISSUES (D);
- LEADERSHIP & MANAGEMENT DEVELOPMENT (E); and
- OFFENDER PROGRAM INTERVENTIONS (I)

To review how we calculated the average scores for the full survey sample, see page 8.

Field Concerns by Issue

Issues covered in the survey rank in the following distribution per their full-sample averages.

Tier 1 — Top Concerns (Average scores 2.25 and higher, or 50% "strong" or "critical" rating in at least one sample group)

•	Ability to evaluate program impact	(2.56)
	Adequacy of offender mental health care	(2.48)
	Planning for staff needs	(2.47)
	Training and developing managers and supervisors	(2.46)
	Employee motivation	(2.44)
	Sufficient program capacity for offender population	(2.42)
	Training and developing executives and leaders	(2.38)
	Responding to needs of specific offender populations	(2.37)
	Influencing system policies that affect costs	(2.34)
	Succession planning	(2.34)
	Numeric sufficiency of staff to manage offenders	(2.33)
	Research and evaluation	(2.32)
	New employee recruitment, screening, and selection	(2.31)
	Employee salary and benefits	(2.28)
	Evaluation of training impact	(2.27)
	Ability to identify and implement effective programs	(2.25)
	Information systems/data management	(2.21)
	Identifying staff for management/supervisory positions	(2.20)
	Facility capacity to handle offender population	(2.19)
	Identifying staff for leadership/executive positions	(2.17)
	Staff retention/turnover	(2.08)
	Managing high-cost functional areas	(2.06)
•	Age and condition of facilities	(2.00)

Tier 2 — Significant Concerns (Average scores 2.00 to 2.24)

Adequacy of technology to manage offenders	(2.19)
Offender needs assessment	(2.16)
Partnerships with other treatment providers	(2.16)
Integration of training with supervision	(2.14)
Community acceptance of high-risk populations	(2.14)
Capability to manage offenders at all risk levels	(2.12)
Skill sufficiency of staff to manage offenders	(2.11)
Communications within the agency	(2.11)
Acceptance/support at community level	(2.08)
Readiness to use or adopt new training technologies	(2.04)
Training needs assessment	(2.03)
Ability to identify innovations & solutions from outside	(2.03)
Involvement in justice system planning, policy, and coord.	(2.03)
In-service training	(2.02)
Internal policy, quality control, auditing, and accountability	(2.01)
Adequacy of in-house training capacity	(2.00)
Coordination across functional units	(2.00)
Adequacy of facilities for safe management of offenders	(2.00)

Tier 3 — Moderate Concerns (Average scores 1.75 to 1.99)

Facility planning and development process	(1.98)
Offender risk assessment & classification	(1.98)
Relations with justice system stakeholders	(1.96)
Adequacy of facilities to support mission	(1.95)
Collaboration with agencies/service providers	(1.94)
Management diversity	(1.91)
Technology applications	(1.89)
Agency culture and values	(1.86)
Employee supports (flex time, nurseries/child care, EAP)	(1.86)
Workforce diversity	(1.85)
Communicating budgetary needs	(1.84)
Strategic planning	(1.82)
Relations with governing and funding bodies	(1.81)
Creative re-tooling of agency operations	(1.76)
Adequacy of offender medical care	(1.75)

Tier 4 — Lesser Concerns (Average scores 1.74 or lower)

	Pre-service training	(1.67)
	Relations with the media	(1.61)
	Litigation by offenders, families, and advocates	(1.44)
	Contracting/contract management	(1.40)
	Agency mission, vision, and goals	(1.39)
	Formulating a workable budget	(1.20)
	Unions/organized labor	(1.14)
•	Litigation by crime victims	(1.02)
	Litigation by staff	(1.01)
	Privatization of correctional services	(0.80)

Table 2 presents details on the field's top-tier concerns, with component scores from community corrections, jails, and prisons.

Concerns of Community Corrections

In addition to the issues listed in Table 2, several other areas were rated high by community corrections respondents — 40% or more of respondents listed the following items as a "strong" or "critical" need:

- Capability to manage offenders across all risk levels [category H] 2.36, 49%
- Offender needs assessment [I] 2.33, 44%
- Offender risk assessment & classification [H] 2.32, 47%
- Community acceptance of high-risk populations [C] 2.27, 45%
- Involvement in planning, policy, & coordination [C] 2.24, 45%
- Strategic planning [A] 2.17, 43%
- Information systems/data management [A] 2.06, 40%
- Internal policy & accountability [A] 2.05, 41%

Overall, the top 10 issues identified by community corrections executives as needing attention or a change in approach were:

- 1) Ability to evaluate program impact [category I]
- 2) Research and evaluation [A]
- 3) Sufficient program capacity (slots) for offender population [I]
- 4) Ability to identify and implement programs [I]
- 5) Numeric sufficiency of staff to manage offenders [H]
- 6) Responding to needs of specific populations [I]
- 7 (tie) Adequacy of offender mental health care [H]
- 7 (tie) Training and developing managers/supervisors [E]
- 8) Capability to manage offenders at all assessed risk levels [H]
- 9) Offender needs assessment [I]
- 10 (tie) Offender risk assessment and classification [H]
- 10 (tie) Training and developing executives/leaders [E]
- 10 (tie) Planning for staffing needs [D]

Concerns of Jails

For the jail sample, 35% or more of respondents listed these issues as a "strong" or "critical" need, in addition to issues identified in Table 2. (A lower cut-off percentage is used for jails because their scores were lower overall.)

- Facility capacity to handle offender population [G] 2.38, 49%
- Managing high-cost functional areas (e.g., offender medical care, employee health insurance) [B] – 2.16, 41%
- Adequacy of facilities for safe offender management and supervision [G] –
 2.14, 42%
- Facility planning and development process [G] 2.13, 42%
- Strategic planning [A] 2.10, 35%
- Adequacy of facilities to support mission [G] 2.09, 43%
- Age and condition of facilities [G] 1.98, 37%
- Staff retention/turnover [D] 1.98, 36%

Overall, the top 10 issues identified by jail executives as needing attention or a change in approach were:

- 1) Employee motivation [category D]
- 2) Planning for staffing needs [D]
- 3 (tie) New employee recruitment, screening, and selection [D]
- 3 (tie) Facility capacity to handle offender population [G]
- 4) Adequacy of offender mental health care [I]
- 5) Training and developing managers/supervisors [E]
- 6) Ability to evaluate program impact [I]
- 7) Training and developing executives/leaders [E]
- 8) Influencing justice system policies that affect costs [B]
- 9) Evaluation of training impact [FI]
- 10 (tie) Numeric sufficiency of staff to manage offenders [H]
- 10 (tie) Managing high-cost functional areas (e.g., offender medical care, employee health insurance) [B]
- 10 (tie) Planning for staffing needs [D]

Concerns of Prisons

In the prisons sample, 45% or more of respondents listed the following issues as "strong" or "critical" needs, in addition to the issues presented in Table 2. (A higher cut-off percentage was used for prisons because prison scores were higher overall.)

- Managing high-cost functional areas (e.g., offender medical care, employee health insurance) [B] – 2.79, 63%
- Staff retention/turnover [D] 2.64, 57%
- Information systems/data management [A] 2.55, 53%
- Community acceptance of high-risk populations [C] 2.49, 60%
- Communications within agency [A] 2.43, 45%
- Adequacy of technology to manage offenders [H] 2.35, 46%
- Technology applications [A] 2.34, 49%

Overall, the top 10 issues identified by prison executives as needing attention or a change in approach were:

- Managing high-cost functional areas (e.g., offender medical care, employee health insurance) [B]
- 2) Succession planning [E]
- 3) Adequacy of offender mental health care [H]
- 4 (tie) Sufficient program capacity (slots) for offender population [I]
- 4 (tie) Planning for staff needs [D]
- 5 (tie) Staff retention/turnover [D]
- 5 (tie) Identifying staff for management/supervisory positions [E]
- 6) Identifying staff for executive/leadership positions [E]
- 7 (tie) New employee recruitment, screening, and selection [D]
- 7 (tie) Employee motivation [D]
- 7 (tie) Training and developing executives/leaders [E]
- 8) Responding to the needs of specific populations [I]
- 9) Ability to evaluate program impact [I]

Details on Issues & Categories

The project generated considerable detail on agency concerns. This section provides additional review and synthesis of the findings under each category.

The profile for each category includes:

- An overview of top-level issues for the full survey sample;
- A table summarizing the full-sample and functional area average scores for the issues in the category; and
- For each of the issues in the category, a separate table with average scores by sample, the percentage "strong" or "critical" need by sample, and observations on the data.

These sections present compiled data. For raw data and percentage analysis of full Likert scale responses, readers can refer to the spreadsheets that appear in Appendix C.

A) ORGANIZATIONAL DEVELOPMENT AND ADMINISTRATION

OVERVIEW

Two issues in this category were ranked in the top tier of concerns for the full sample (2.25 Likert average score and/or 50% "strong" or "critical" need to address in at least one of the data samples):

- Research and evaluation
- Information systems/data management

Other issues presented in this category were:

- Agency mission, vision, & goals
- Agency culture and values
- Strategic planning
- Communications within agency
- Coordination across units
- Internal policy, quality control, auditing, and accountability
- Technology applications
- Contracting/contract management
- Ability to identify relevant innovations, ideas, & solutions from outside your agency

B) BUDGET AND FISCAL MANAGEMENT

OVERVIEW

Two issues in this category were ranked in the top tier of concerns for the full sample (2.25 Likert average score and/or 50% "strong" or "critical" need to address in at least one of the data samples):

- Influencing system policies that affect costs
- Managing high-cost functional areas

Items ranked at lower levels were:

- Formulating a workable budget
- Communicating budgetary needs
- Eliminating/reducing programs, services
- Eliminating/reducing staff positions
- Creative re-tooling of agency operations

Table 4. Scores by Full Sample Rank — Budget & Fiscal Management

Big-ticket costs (mainly related to medical care, as per the survey's examples) were the top concern for prison respondents and the 10th ranked issue for jails. Strong percentage prison interest pushed this issue to the top tier for the study. [This page intentionally left blank.]

C) RELATIONS WITH THE EXTERNAL ENVIRONMENT

OVERVIEW

Though several issues in this category are of moderate concern to respondents, only one was ranked in the top tier of concerns for the full sample (2.25 Likert average score and/or 50% "strong" or "critical" need to address in at least one of the data samples).

Community acceptance of high-risk populations

Other issues in this category include:

- Relations with governing and funding bodies
- Involvement in planning, policy and coordination
- Collaboration with agencies/providers
- Acceptance/support at community level
- Relations with justice system stakeholders
- Relations with media
- Privatization of correctional services

D) WORKFORCE ISSUES

OVERVIEW

The "workforce" category is one of two categories with the most top-tier issues, shown to include several issues of high importance to respondents. Jail respondents identified their top three issues in this category. Three issues in the top 10 for prisons occur here, as does one issue in the community corrections top 10.

For the full sample, five issues in this category were ranked in the top tier of concerns (2.25 Likert average score and/or 50% "strong" or "critical" need to address in at least one of the data samples):

- Planning for current and future staffing needs
- Employee motivation
- New employee recruitment, screening, and selection
- Employee salary and benefits
- Staff retention/turnover

Each of these issues was rated a "strong" or "critical" need area by half or more of respondents in at least one of the responding audience sectors.

Items ranked at lower levels were:

- Employee supports (e.g. flextime, nursery/child care, assistance programs)
- Workforce diversity
- Unions/organized labor
- Litigation by staff

Table 6. Scores by Full Sample Rank — Workforce Issues

E) LEADERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT DEVELOPMENT

OVERVIEW

Five issues in this category were ranked in the top tier of concerns for the full sample (2.25 Likert average score and/or 50% "strong" or "critical" need to address in at least one of the data samples):

- Training and development of executive/leaders
- Training and development of managers and supervisors
- Succession planning
- Identifying staff for leadership/executive positions
- Identifying staff for management/supervisory positions

The remaining issue in this category is:

Management diversity

Table 7. Scores by Full Sample Rank — Leadership & Management Development

 Succession planning is a top-tier concern for the full sample and was 2nd among the concerns of prison executives. Its rating was lower but still significant in jails. [This page intentionally left blank.]

F) STAFF TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT

OVERVIEW

One issue in this category was ranked in the top tier of concerns for the full sample (2.25 Likert average score and/or 50% "strong" or "critical" need to address in at least one of the data samples):

Evaluation of training impact

Other issues in this category are:

- Pre-service training
- In-service training
- Integration of training with supervision
- Adequacy of in-house training capacity
- Readiness to use new training technologies

Jail scores in this section tend to be closer to the scores given by prisons and community corrections than is the case in other categories, suggesting that jails are experiencing a higher urgency to improve staff training.

G) PHYSICAL PLANT

OVERVIEW

Two issues in this category were ranked in the top tier of concerns for the full sample (2.25 Likert average score and/or 50% "strong" or "critical" need to address in at least one of the data samples).

- Capacity of facilities to handle offender population
- Age & condition of facilities

Other issues in this category are:

- Adequacy of facilities for safe management & supervision of offenders
- Adequacy of facilities to support agency's mission & operational philosophy
- Facility planning and development process

Table 9. Scores by Full Sample Rank — Physical Plant

		Average Scores
	Full sample	Community corrections	Jails	Prisons
Capacity of facilities to handle offender population	2.19	1.66	2.38 [3rd]	2.52
Age & condition of facilities	2.00	1.53	1.98	2.48
Adequacy of facilities for safe management & supervision of offenders	2.00	1.75	2.14	2.11
Facility planning & development process	1.98	1.65	2.13	2.17
Adequacy of facilities to support the agency's mission & operational philosophy	1.95	1.62	2.09	2.15

FULL SAMPLE	2.19
COMMUNITY	1.66	29%
JAILS	2.38	49%	3rd
PRISONS	2.52	50%	_

Facility capacity is a top-level concern in jails, where it was ranked 3rd, and in prisons, where it was ranked near the top 10. Half of both prison and jail respondents identified capacity as a "strong" or "critical" issue.

G-2 Adequacy of facilities for safe management and supervision of offenders

	V
	AVERAGE SCORE	PERCENTAGE STATING STRONG OR CRITICAL NEED TO ADDRESS	ITEM RANK
FULL SAMPLE	2.00
COMMUNITY	1.75	31%	-
JAILS	2.14	42%	_
PRISONS	2.11	35%	_

Adequate safety within facilities is a significant concern in jails and prisons. The jails score and percentage at strong or critical are higher than the figures from prisons, unusual in this research and suggesting added importance for jails. Facility safety is a moderate concern in community corrections.

G-3 Adequacy of facilities to support the agency's mission & operational philosophy

	AVERAGE SCORE	PERCENTAGE STATING STRONG OR CRITICAL NEED TO ADDRESS	ITEM RANK
FULL SAMPLE	1.95
COMMUNITY	1.62	25%
JAILS	2.09	43%	_
PRISONS	2.15	35%	_

The ability of facilities to support the functional mission of the agency is a moderate interest area for all survey segments. It rises to the "significant" tier as rated by prisons and jails. Its rating by jail respondents is, again, relatively high for that sample group.

G-4 Age and condition of facilities

	AVERAGE SCORE	PERCENTAGE STATING STRONG OR CRITICAL NEED TO ADDRESS	ITEM RANK
FULL SAMPLE	2.00
COMMUNITY	1.53	25%	-
JAILS	1.98	37%	_
PRISONS	2.48	52%	_

■ The high level of concern indicated by the prisons sample pushed age and condition of facilities to the top tier of issues surveyed. The jail response is also relatively high for that sample group.

G-5 Facility planning and development process

	AVERAGE SCORE	PERCENTAGE STATING STRONG OR CRITICAL NEED TO ADDRESS	ITEM RANK
FULL SAMPLE	1.98
COMMUNITY	1.65	27%	_
JAILS	2.13	42%	_
PRISONS	2.17	39%	_

■ Facility planning fell into the "moderate concern" category despite a near top-10 showing in the jail sample. It was also rated fairly high by prison respondents.

H) SAFETY OF STAFF, OFFENDERS, AND THE COMMUNITY

OVERVIEW

Two issues in this category were ranked in the top tier of concerns for the full sample (2.25 Likert average score and/or 50% "strong" or "critical" need to address in at least one of the data samples):

- Adequacy of offender mental health care
- Numeric sufficiency of staff to manage offenders

Other issues reviewed here are:

- Offender risk assessment and classification^{*}
- Capability to manage & supervise offenders across all assessed risk levels*
- Adequacy of technology to manage offenders
- Skill sufficiency of staff to manage offenders
- Litigation by offenders, families, and advocates
- Litigation by crime victims
- Adequacy of offender medical care

Table 10. Scores by Full Sample Rank — Safety of Staff, Offenders, and the Community

	Average Scores
	Full sample	Community corrections	Jails	Prisons
Adequacy of offender mental health care	2.48	2.37 [7th]	2.31	2.76 [3rd]
Numeric sufficiency of staff to manage & supervise offenders	2.33	2.43 [5th]	2.16 [10th]	2.40
Adequacy of technology to manage offenders	2.19	2.17	2.06	2.35
Capability to manage & supervise offenders at all assessed risk levels	2.12	2.36 [8th]	2.89	2.11
Skill sufficiency to staff to manage offenders	2.11	2.17	1.95	2.20
Offender risk assessment & classification	1.98	2.32 [10th]	1.84	1.78
Adequacy of offender medical care	1.75	1.37	1.86	2.02
Litigation by offenders, offenders' families, or offender advocacy groups	1.44	1.06	1.49	1.76
Litigation by crime victims	1.02	0.89	1.06	1.11

^{*} These issues pose strong concern among community corrections agencies, though their ratings were not high enough to bring them above the cut-off level used in this report.

H-1 Offender risk assessment & classification

	AVERAGE SCORE	PERCENTAGE STATING STRONG OR CRITICAL NEED TO ADDRESS	ITEM RANK
FULL SAMPLE	1.98
COMMUNITY	2.32	47%	10th (tie)
JAILS	1.84	26%	_
PRISONS	1.78	24%	_

Community corrections respondents ranked assessment and classification in 10th place in importance to be addressed. Nearly 50% of that sample considered this issue of "strong" or "critical" need to be addressed, not enough to move it to the top tier. The issue was scored as a moderate concern by jails and prison respondents.

H-2 Capability to manage & supervise offenders at all assessed risk levels

	PERCENTAGE STATING STRONG OR CRITICAL
	AVERAGE SCORE	NEED TO ADDRESS	ITEM RANK
FULL SAMPLE	2.12
COMMUNITY	2.36	49%	8th
JAILS	1.89	27%	_
PRISONS	2.11	35%	_

Community corrections ranked this issue in 8th place, and at 49% it was very close to the 50% cutoff to make the top tier of field concerns. Jail respondents showed a somewhat lower level of concern.

H-3 Adequacy of technology to manage & supervise offenders (e.g., GPS, biometrics, chemical sensors, locking systems)

	AVERAGE SCORE	PERCENTAGE STATING STRONG OR CRITICAL NEED TO ADDRESS	ITEM RANK
FULL SAMPLE	2.19	NEED TO NODICEOU	TILITIONN
COMMUNITY	2.17	39%	_
JAILS	2.06	33%	_
PRISONS	2.35	46%	_

■ Technology concerns related to offender management are a top-tier issue for the prison sample and also significant in community corrections and jails.

H-4 Numeric sufficiency of staff to manage & supervise offenders

	AVERAGE SCORE	PERCENTAGE STATING STRONG OR CRITICAL NEED TO ADDRESS	ITEM RANK
FULL SAMPLE	2.33
COMMUNITY	2.43	47%	5th
JAILS	2.16	36%	10th
PRISONS	2.40	51%	_

■ Staffing levels are a top-tier concern for the full sample and important to the leadership of all three groups surveyed. Though the issue did not rank in the top 10 for prisons, it was still rated as a strong or critical need by more than half of prison respondents.

H-5 Skill sufficiency of staff to manage & supervise offenders

FULL SAMPLE	1.75
COMMUNITY	1.37	22%	_
JAILS	1.86	29%	_
PRISONS	2.02	33%	_

 Adequacy of offender medical care was ranked as a moderate concern in jails and community corrections and a significant concern in prisons. (But see also the related question in Section B on managing high-cost functional areas.)

H-9 Adequacy of offender mental health care

Offender mental health care is the 2nd most critical issue for correctional agencies to address, according to overall survey results. Mental health issues are in the top 10 for all three groups surveyed.

I) OFFENDER PROGRAM INTERVENTIONS

OVERVIEW

The offender programs category was one of two categories with the most top-tier issues. Four issues in this category were ranked in the top tier of concerns for the full sample (2.25 Likert average score and/or 50% "strong" or "critical" need to address in at least one of the data samples):

- Ability to identify and implement programs
- Sufficient program capacity for offender population
- Ability to evaluate program impact
- Responding to needs of specific populations

Other issues included in this section are:

- Offender needs assessment
- Partnerships with other treatment providers

Both of these items scored relatively high, but not high enough to make the top tier.

FULL SAMPLE	2.42
COMMUNITY	2.57	57%	3rd
JAILS	1.99	32%	_
PRISONS	2.70	61%	4th

Program capacity is a top-tier concern for the full sample. Though it received a lower score from jails, this was balanced against very high scores from community corrections (3rd ranked) and prisons (4th ranked).

I-4 Partnerships with other treatment providers

FULL SAMPLE	2.56
COMMUNITY	2.88	71%	1st
JAILS	2.23	39%	6th
PRISONS	2.58	60%	9th

The need to better evaluate the impact of correctional programming has the top average score among issues covered by the survey. It was ranked in the top 10 across all three survey sample groups. Likert scale scores are very high for community corrections and prison respondents, as are the percentage responses. [This page intentionally left blank.]

J. OTHER KEY FACTORS (Write-In Issues)

Respondents could write in additional issues that they felt had not be covered in the basic survey instrument. The data are not available in a community corrections/jails/prisons breakdown and have not been evaluated at the time of this writing.

WE PLAN TO PROVIDE THIS SECTION LATER AS "APPENDIX D"

(In many cases, write-in answers tend to re-emphasize issues covered in the existing survey questions.)

K. LIKELIHOOD OF ACCESSING NIC ASSISTANCE

OVERVIEW

Respondents were asked, "How likely is it that, within the next 2 years, your agency will access the following forms of no-cost NIC assistance?" The purpose of this section was to gain an approximate sense of what NIC services are most appealing or accessible to constituent agencies. A variety of factors can influence the use of specific NIC services, such as program timing, availability of appropriate staff or other resources, computer access, and end-user comfort levels with technology. Also, some respondents may have had little or no awareness of the range of NIC services. In that sense, the survey may have had added value as an informational tool on behalf of NIC.

A comparable 5-level Likert scale scoring format was used for this section. However, the qualitative relationship is different than the other survey sections:

0 = Not likely to access
1 = Minimally likely to access
2 = Somewhat likely to access
3 = Very likely to access
4 = Extremely likely to access

Average scores for the full sample ranged from 2.19 to 3.20 and, overall, they indicated high levels of likely usage. NIC web services had by far the highest reported likelihood of usage. The prisons sample tended to rate all services at higher levels of likely use than did the other sample groups.

The mid-range value for this category was 2.51. Services with scores above this level are most likely to be accessed by constituent agencies, according to survey data. The services ranking in the top half for the full survey sample are:

- Resources & links on NIC web site
- NIC classroom training, regionally delivered (closer to your agency)
- NIC Information Center document delivery
- NIC training sessions at professional conferences
- NIC Information Center research assistance
- Classroom training, delivered on-site at your agency

Services ranked in the lower half of scores for the full sample are:

- Classroom training at NIC Training Center
- NIC e-mail discussion groups (listervs) and online forums
- On-site technical assistance
- NIC informational or training broadcasts (viewed after the broadcast on DVD)
- NIC online e-learning (web-based training)
- NIC e-learning programs on CD-ROM
- NIC-sponsored peer administrator network meetings
- NIC informational or training broadcasts (viewed live by satellite downlink)
- NIC informational or training broadcasts (viewed live by Internet streaming)
- NIC informational or training broadcasts (viewed after the broadcast via Internet streaming)

About NIC

The National Institute of Corrections (NIC) is a small, Federal agency created by the U.S. Congress in 1974 to assist state and local corrections agencies. All services are provided at no cost to the recipient agency. Most NIC staff have come to NIC from careers in state or local corrections.

NIC's range of services includes:

- Correctional management and specialty staff training (including instructor-led classes, broadcast programs, elearning, and professional conference workshops),
- ♦ Information assistance (NIC Information Center and web site), and
- Custom technical assistance that addresses the needs of individual agencies.

For more background on NIC, please visit our web site, www.nicic.org.

Why Your Response Is Important

This survey is being distributed to top correctional administrators nationwide, in all types of agencies. By tapping into your knowledge and experience, NIC seeks to learn which issues are of greatest concern to our colleagues in state and local correctional agencies.

Later surveying will gather input from correctional staff at other levels of the agency structure.

Your response will help create meaningful survey findings to shape future NIC services. We appreciate your help and time in sharing your views.

How to Respond

- We encourage agency directors to complete this survey with a team of key staff, for a balanced perspective on broad agency aims and on-the-ground operations.
- ♦ This survey is organized under nine functional areas in corrections (sections A I). In each area, we list factors typically important in correctional agency operations and management. You will rate each factor on whether and how strongly your agency needs to address it. In Section J, you can add other factors we did not cover. In Section K, please indicate your agency's level of interest in using several types of NIC assistance.
- Complete the survey online at www.nicic.org/surveys/ NeedsAssessment or send your completed survey to the NIC Information Center at the fax number or mailing address provided on the cover page.
- ♦ Please send only one response for your agency Do not send a written copy if you complete the online survey. Do not mail a paper copy if you fax your reply to NIC.

Instructions for Completing the Survey

This survey is organized under nine major functional areas in corrections. Under each area, we list factors that are typically important in agency operations and management.

Your agency's way of handling a factor may be satisfactory now, or the agency may need to address the factor by implementing new strategies and techniques for a more effective approach.

Using a scale from 0 to 4, the survey asks how critical it is that your agency address each factor in order to improve the agency's performance in this area.

For each item, circle the appropriate number to show whether/how strongly your agency needs to address it:

- 0 No need to address this factor
- 1 Little need to address this factor
- 2 Some need to address this factor
- 3 Strong need to address this factor
- 4 Critical need to address this factor

In Section J, page 7, you can add other items that we did not cover in our survey questions.

In Section K, page 8, we ask how likely it is that your agency will access NIC assistance in several specific forms. All NIC services are provided free of charge.

Your input is essential to help NIC identify the issues of greatest concern to you and your colleagues in corrections and develop effective strategies for addressing them.

Thank you very much for responding!
